INNOVATIONS

Optimizes three-dimensional frame bending for targeted power, spin, and control.

WILabs innovation team's patent pending technology that utilizes computer aided design software to create specific geometry that maximizes vertical bending without losing any torsional stability.

Patent-protected lay-up produces a more connected-to-the-ball feel while better complementing the modern, vertical swing path. Material increases both flexibility and stability without compromise through the swing.

Carbon fiber handle extends to connect directly to end cap for improved feel and enhanced torsional stability.

Easy-to-replace bumpers & grommets prolong your racket's lifespan.

Created in collaboration with RF for excellent performance versatility, allowing for pace, spin, and direction changes, which are a signature of his all around style. (Its an all-encompassing tech for the geometry of the racket)

Racket is filled internally with foam to optimize vibration dampening.

BRAID 45

This update to the classic Pro Staff Graphite and Kevlar braid arranges the braid fibers at 45 degree angles, allowing the braid to "breathe" more upon impact. The result is an enhanced pocketing feel combined with incredible stability.

Encompasses three geometrical enhancements designed to boost stability and generate easy power off the strings.

Cavity on the inside of the frame extends the cross strings for more power and responsiveness off the string bed.

Patented Spin Effect Technology is the first racket system that actually increases ball RPM without players changing their swing. The net seems lower and the court feels longer on all your shots.

Braided Graphite Basalt is an elastic and reactive material combination that improves the flex of a racket. This evolution of Wilson's BLX® technology increases the ball's contact with the strings to provide enhanced feel and greater control.

Developed for aggressive swings, this premium modulus carbon graphite provides increased frame stiffness for explosive power.

Three-piece Racket system where hoop and handle are separated with Iso-Zorb, providing the ultimate in comfort and soft feel.

Provides a consistent, more forgiving string bed response while dramatically increasing the sweet spot.

Spin Effect® Technology is a racket and string pattern innovation that increases ball spin. Pros often customize the racket they use. Racket specifications on endorsed consumer models may vary from the models used by Pros for match-play.

The More you know

What is string bed stiffness and why do we use it?

String bed stiffness measures the deformation of a string bed through a metric called RA. The higher the RA value, the stiffer the string bed is. The lower the RA value, the looser the string bed is. This produces more deformation of the string bed during contact. Please consult with your clients to determine a string bed stiffness that fits their playing style.

String bed stiffness can reveal tension loss throughout the life of a string bed. RA values will decrease over time and through use. It is recommended to measure your clients' rackets frequently to determine the best time for restringing to maintain optimal performance.

* Wilson Tip: Record RA after stringing to give consumer reference point when later measuring string bed stiffness.

* Wilson Tip: Keep machine in string bed stiffness mode and machine in front of store so consumers and staff can quickly measure racquets against this initial RA.

What is swing weight and why do we use it?

Swing weight is the weight you feel when swinging a racquet. It is a dynamic measurement captured in the rotating swing weight clamp in either kg-cm<sup>2</sup> or oz-in<sup>2</sup>. The higher the swing weight value, the more "plow through" (momentum) the racquet will exert on the ball during contact, creating more power as a result. A lower swing weight value will reduce "plow through" (momentum) exerted on the ball but will increase the racquet maneuverability. Please consult with your clients to determine a swing weight that fits their playing style

Tennis:

330 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
300 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

Padel/Platform:

180 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
140 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

Badminton:

100 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
70 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

Pickleball:

80 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
60 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

Squash:

200 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
170 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

Racquetball:

150 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Plow-Through)
120 kg-cm<sup>2</sup> (More Maneuverability)

What is horizontal bending and why do we use it?

Horizontal bending measures the deflection of the racquet at the tip of the frame (12 o'clock) when laid flat via a metric called RA. The higher the RA value, the stiffer the racquet will feel on contact. As RA values decrease the racquet will feel more flexible and forgiving. Please consult with your clients to determine the proper horizontal bending that fits their playing style.

Tennis:

80 RA (High Stiffness)
40 RA (Low Stiffness)

Padel/Platform:

90 RA (High Stiffness)
70 RA (Low Stiffness)

Pickleball:

50 RA (High Stiffness)

Squash:

50 RA (High Stiffness)
30 RA (Low Stiffness)

Racquetball:

75 RA (High Stiffness)
50 RA (Low Stiffness)

What is vertical bending and why do we use it?

Vertical bending measures the deflection of the racquet at either side of the frame (3 or 9 o'clock) when laid sideways via a metric called RA. This test measures racquet stiffness for players who generate lots of spin with a steeper contact angle. A higher RA value will indicate greater stiffness, which is typical for the traditional horizontal swing path. A lower RA value will indicate greater flexibility, which generates more spin for a modern vertical swing path. Please consult with your clients to determine the proper vertical bending that fits their playing style.

Tennis:

80 RA (High Stiffness)
40 RA (Low Stiffness)

What is face deflection and why do we use it?

Face deflection measures the deformation of a paddle face through a metric called RA. The higher the RA value, the stiffer the paddle face is. This produces less deformation of the paddle face during contact. The lower the RA value, the more a paddle face deforms on contact for softer feel. Please consult with your clients to determine a face deflection that fits their playing style.

* Wilson Tip: For pickleball, there is a 0.127 mm (0.005") face deformation limit for legal use in competition.

Padel/Platform:

70 RA (High Deformation)
40 RA (Low Deformation)

Pickleball:

0.1 mm / 0.005" (High Deformation)
0.01 mm / 0.001" (Low Deformation)

HOW OFTEN SHOULD I RE-STRING MY RACQUET?

Your strings can impact your performance just as much as the racket you use. If you think of your racket as your car and the strings as the engine, you would have a re-stringing schedule just like you would have an oil change maintenance schedule for your car. The old rule of thumb has always been to re-string your tennis racket as many times a year as you play in one week (Ex: If you play once a week, you re-string once per year). That model doesn't take into account players who are playing less than once a week, and most importantly, it's not frequent enough. As a starting point, here's a baseline guide with the minimum number of times you should re-string your racquet within a year:

Minimum Number of Times to Re-String Per Year

BEGINNER	FREQUENCY OF PLAY	INTERMEDIATE/ADVANCED
	Casual (Less than once per month)
	Occasional (1-3 times per month)
	Frequent (1-3 times per week)
	Avid (4 times per week)

STRING PER YEAR

5 4 3 2 1                      1 2 3 4 5

** This graph is for players who are not breaking strings **

What other factors should I consider for re-stringing?

TENSION LOSS

- Strings begin losing tension the moment your racket is taken off the stringing machine.
- As tension drops, you lose control and the ability to generate as much topspin - especially if you play with a poly.
- In general, poly strings lose tension quicker than multifilament strings. They would require more frequent re-stringing.

ARM/ELBOW COMFORT LEVEL

- Strings lose their resilience over time, creating a stiff or dead feeling that can be harsh on your arm.
- A freshly strung racquet will absorb the shock better upon contact, providing more comfort.
- This is especially important if you have elbow or arm issues, in which case you should consider re-stringing more often.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONDITIONS

- Natural gut absorbs moisture quicker in humid environments.
- Poly strings wear out even quicker when exposed to excessive heat or sun.
- On top of re-stringing, a tennis bag with thermoguard lining will better protect the racquet and strings.

STYLE OF PLAY

- Strings will wear out faster if you play more aggressively, use more spin, and/or primarily hit from the baseline.

Visual indicators you're overdue to re-string

NOTCHING

- Strings rub together as you hit the ball, creating friction.
- This leads to grooves at the intersection of the strings in the middle of the racquet.

FRAYING

- Natural gut and multifilament strings are comprised of tiny fibers that eventually break down.
- Poly strings are a single filament, so they will not fray.

I am breaking strings too often. What should I do?

GAUGE OPTIONS

- The thicker the gauge, the more durable it will be.

SWITCH TO HYBRID STRING

- If you're playing with a multifilament string, consider switching to a poly string in the mains or crosses for more durability.

SWITCH TO POLYESTER (MONOFILAMENT) STRING

- Poly strings provide excellent durability since they are made of a single filament.
- However, they also lose tension quicker. This can require more frequent re-stringing for consistent performance.
- If you have arm/elbow issues, this may not be the best option due to its stiffer feeling.

Additional re-stringing tips

- As the performance of the string changes, you continually adjust your technique - whether you notice it or not. It can become frustrating to constantly overcompensate when the strings are no longer performing as they should. If you're an avid player or competing in tournaments and looking for more consistent performance, you will want to consider re-stringing on a more regular basis.
- If you carry multiple racquets, you ideally should re-string both every time. Even though you are primarily only playing with one racket, the strings in the other racquet are still losing their tension and resilience (just at a slightly slower pace). If you break the strings in your primary racket in the middle of the match and switch to your other racket, it will play very differently if it hasn't been re-strung in a while.
